The most important thing to realize is that China is a country whose riches are waiting for you to discover them.

Your life will be changed in ways you may never have thought possible if you make the decision to spend your gap year, new career and volunteer in China. The hardest part, in fact, is deciding to go. For once you do the skills you gain and the experiences you have will make you not only more knowledgeable, but also a much more interesting person than you ever were before.

Sunrise International is the specialist for China programmes. We offer one week to a year opportunities abroad in social, environment, education, medical, journalism and community areas around China.

Sunrise

Medical

The traditional forms of Chinese medicine combined with more conventional western techniques makes medical work experience in China so unique.

Experience medicine in China by shadowing a doctor, a nurse or a healthy advisor around various departments of a Chinese hospital is a great opportunity to see how western medicine works side by side with traditional methods. You also can learn Chinese acupuncture and naprapathy during your stay.

Whether you are thinking of applying to medical school or are going to learn something new for your career, we will arrange this valuable medical experience for you.

Journalism

Days are spent covering local events, finding newsworthy stories, attending press rounds, conducting interviews with distinguished visitors from abroad or local celebrities, or talking to everyday locals to ascertain their views on a range of subjects and then writing up and editing articles. Other areas of work will include proof-reading and editing articles, possibly contributing to layout ideas, and just generally helping whenever and wherever your assistance is required. Volunteers also have the opportunity to get involved with the photography side of journalism. The knowledge of computers and working in Word, Excel would be an advantage.

Orphanage

The Orphanage would suit for someone who wants to share their time, love, and passion for those children who have rarely experienced love in their life. There are some children in China who don't have anybody to call their own. These children are under 16 years old, have been abandoned by their parents or those who come from the homes of domestic violence are sheltered by the orphanages. They are given basic food, fodder, shelter and schooling but on top of everything, they need to be loved and nurtured as a family. It is an excellent programme and will give you worthwhile and satisfying experience.

The Giant Panda

is one of the most delightful and captivating of animals, yet one of the most endangered species in the world. The best scientific estimates place the total number of all pandas at only 1590, most of them are living in China.

Previous client voice - I am taking Sunrise Panda Conservation project. Today is my first day in Bi Fengxia! I meet Ji Ping, our contact who will make sure everything goes well. She is very friendly and makes us very welcome! I meet the people I will be working with and they welcome me. Today I just pick up my clothes for work and eat delicious food with the restaurant manager. Everyone is very friendly!! - Malcolm

Panda Conversation

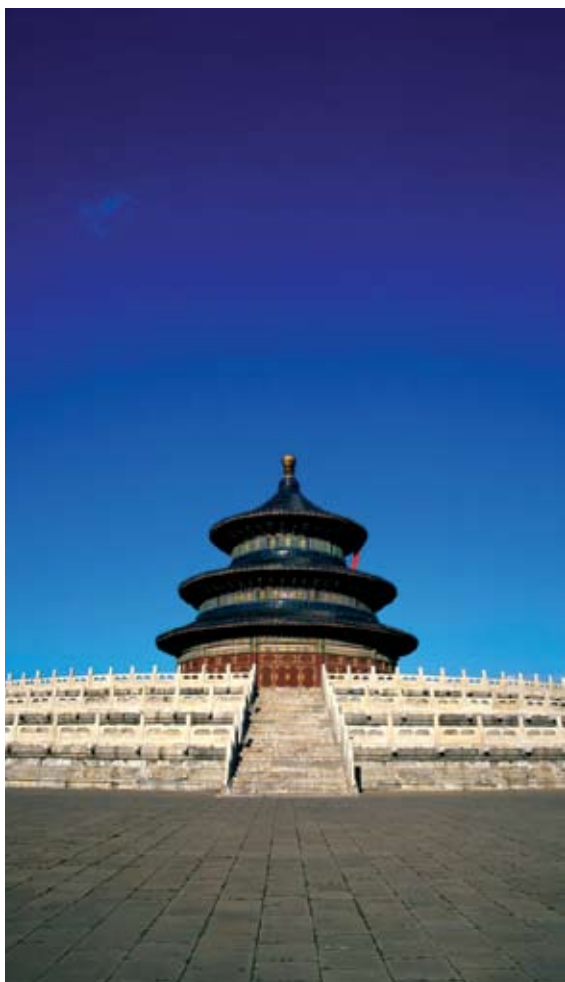

The Chinese government has set up a number of research projects, reserves and parks dedicated to preserving the numbers of these very shy creatures. This programme is based in one such reserve. Your work is one of the assistant Panda keepers, help design the reserve's website and use your English skills to help display information about the reserve's work to visitors and similar breeding programmes around the world. This programme gives you the unique opportunity to cuddle the giant panda!
