meaningful travel

The i-to-i philosophy

We believe that travel should be beneficial to everyone involved, which is why we work closely with locally run projects and tour operators. Travel with i-to-i and you'll spend time with local people, work with locally run projects and live in locally run accommodation. You'll have a truly unique travel experience and return home knowing that you have made a real and lasting difference to the lives and futures of the friends you've made along the way.

unique travel experiences

i-to-i Travel Experiences

There are many ways to travel with i-to-i, and we realise that everyone who travels with us is looking for something different. To make it as easy as possible for you to find your perfect trip, the icons below will give you an idea of what each trip is all about. Look out for them throughout the brochure.

Teaching

Rewarding and fulfilling, these projects offer you the chance to work with schools and community groups in more than 20 countries worldwide.

TRAVEL WITH i-to-i

Responsible Travel

We've developed an ethical policy that guides every aspect of our business. We're committed to providing responsible travel experiences, which benefit local communities and endangered environments worldwide whilst minimising the negative effects of mass tourism.

Supporting Local Communities

By travelling with i-to-i you'll be helping to ensure the long-term sustainability of the local projects that we work with and the communities and environments in which they operate.

We do not give direct funding to the projects we work with. Many experts believe that the constant flow of financial aid into the developing world causes an over-reliance on foreign aid and actually harms the long-term stability of local economies. It is your time and effort (rather than cold hard cash) that makes a difference. What we do is ensure that the infrastructure is in place for you to make a difference. We truly believe that by working together and forging relationships with the developing world, we can make a real and lasting difference.

No Single Supplement

Unlike most major travel companies, we don't think that you should be penalised for choosing to travel by yourself. Travelling solo offers you the chance to reflect upon life, to make new friends and to experience travel in a way that is often impossible when travelling with friends or partners.

A Global Support Network

We have well trained people in every country we work in to ensure that all the day-to-day realities are taken care of. We also retain the services of the world's leading crisis management consultancy, Docleaf. They have helped us to implement a global safety plan, which ensures that in the unlikely event of something going wrong, we have all the bases covered.

Worldwide Choice

With over 500 projects and tours on 5 continents, we offer an unrivalled choice of responsible travel options. We haven't put all our projects in this brochure because it would have been the size of a phone directory and we'd have had to cut down a small forest to print it! To see our full range of products, visit our website - www.i-to-i.com

Worldwide Reputation

Because of the quality of our overseas trips and the dedication of our staff, we have a worldwide reputation as the leader in our field. This excellent reputation has led to long-term partnerships with companies like Lonely Planet, STA Travel and Opodo. Because we love what we do, we are the very best at what we do, which means you can rest assured that everything that can be done has been done to ensure your overseas trip goes smoothly.

A Travel Company run by Travellers

We know about travel because we've travelled ourselves and have years of experience helping people get out there and do it. Our Managing Director got involved in the travel industry after leaving a well-paid job for a leading consultancy firm and travelling from Cape Town to London in a Land Rover. It took him 8 months and he hasn't stopped talking about it since. We are passionate about what we do and we truly believe that by working for i-to-i, we are doing something positive and worthwhile.

The i-to-i Foundation

The i-to-i Foundation (Reg.1099482) is a registered charity designed to provide essential resources to projects that really need them.

In the last year alone the i-to-i foundation has made significant donations to eight of our most disadvantaged projects. These included:

- Providing educational resources to schools and learning centres across India
- The renovation and refurbishment of a medical clinic in Tanzania
- The construction of a community centre in Brazil

ACCOMMODATION

When you travel with i-to-i, you will stay in locally run accommodation. By staying in local hotels, guesthouses and homestays, the money you pay for accommodation goes directly into the local economy, so before you've even lifted a finger you've already made an important contribution.

There are 100's of different accommodation options when travelling with us, so we can't list them all. The options below will give you a pretty good idea of the sorts of places you might stay.

Accommodation varies from place to place, so the exact details will vary depending upon location and not all the choices below are available in all destinations. But one thing remains certain... you'll receive a warm welcome wherever you lay your head.

Homestays

We think that the best way to really get under the skin of a foreign country is to live with a local family. You'll stay in a comfortable home and get a taste of local specialities.

Hotels and Guesthouses

The locally-owned and locally-run hotels and guesthouses we work with offer a safe and comfortable place to lay your head. They are also a great place to meet fellow travellers.

Tented Camps and Jungle Camps

These camps are often pretty basic and offer our more adventurous travellers the chance to experience outdoor life in some truly stunning locations.

Volunteer Houses

These places are owned and run by our in-country teams. You'll be staying in a house full of other volunteers, which makes them a great place to swap stories, make friends and start parties!

Premier Accommodation

If you want a more comfortable and relaxing place to lay your head after a long day of making the world a better place, this may be the perfect solution. Our premier accommodation options offer things like cable TV, en-suite bathrooms and air-conditioning.

WHAT TRIP SHOULD I CHOOSE?

Teaching

Many of the projects we work with offer children from poor backgrounds the opportunity to attend school and gain a vital education. Full Teaching English as a Foreign Language (TEFL) training is included for all teaching trips.

Conservation

Join the fight for the future of our environment by working with vitally important ecology and conservation projects across the planet. Projects include Orang-utan conservation in Borneo, reforestation on Mount Kenya and many more.

Community Development

Work with community groups in some of the poorest parts of the planet. Join forces with local projects and help them grow in a sustained and manageable way. Full TEFL training included.

Building

If you want a hands on volunteer experience our building projects may be just what your after. Projects include building community centres in the favelas of Rio and house building projects across Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Caribbean.

Work experience

Ideal if you're looking for a constructive way to spend your gap year or career break. Use the skills you have and learn a few more. Media, Health and Journalism are available.

Sports

Working with community groups, schools and orphanages, these trips offer you the chance to pass on your passion for sport and get a little exercise into the bargain. Projects available worldwide.

AUSTRALIA

Australia

With attractions such as Uluru, the Great Barrier Reef, Byron Bay, Cape Tribulation and The Great Ocean Road combined with a relaxed atmosphere, great nightlife, world famous fusion-cuisine and some of the most beautiful beaches on the planet, it is easy to see why Australia has become something of a traveller's favourite.

New Zealand

New Zealand is a country of rare and pristine beauty; crystal clear glacial lakes, rugged mountain ranges, deserted golden beaches and abundant native forests that are home to a surprising diversity of wildlife. This stunning country is heaven sent for lovers of the outdoors offering fantastic sailing, excellent skiing and boarding resorts, challenging climbs and a pretty good rugby team too!

Why Australia and NZ need volunteers

Since colonisation by foreign settlers both Australia and New Zealand have suffered from unprecedented levels of indigenous biodiversity loss. Huge tracts of rainforest and wetlands have been raised or drained, entire animal species wiped out and fragile ecosystems have been altered forever. The work of conservation volunteers is vital to the management and preservation of the natural habitats and indigenous species that are left.

Australia and NZ: Top Tips

➔ Drive the 'The Great Ocean Road'. Don't get a cramped bus that only stops at the tourist traps. Buy yourself a beat-up old car with a few friends and savour the experience at your leisure. You can sell it again when you're done!

➔ Head out to Western Australia. Shark Bay is great for a spot of ecotourism, while the Pilbara is outback Oz at its very best.

➔ Head out Tramping in New Zealand. There is no better way to see the country than by walking through it.

Australia and NZ: Top Trips

Nature Conservation across Australia

This is a real outback adventure. You'll work with conservation projects at a variety of stunning destinations across the country.

Wallaby Rehabilitation in Queensland

The Bridled Naitail Wallaby is one of the world's most endangered species. Your time and effort could make a world of difference.

Get involved with conservation initiatives in the stunning hill-country around Auckland. This project combines the best of the great outdoors with all that 'The City of Sails' has to offer.

Find out more

In an attempt to save a few trees, we haven't included all our trips in this brochure. To check out the full range of projects in Australia, visit www.i-to-i.com/australia

For New Zealand, visit www.i-to-i.com/newzealand

Nature conservation across Australia

Are you looking for a real Aussie outback adventure? Working with one of Australia's premier conservation organisations you can choose to base yourself in any of the major gateway cities, or even choose a selection of different locations as you travel around the country. Guided by an experienced team-leader, you will usually work five days on, two days off, visiting a variety of locations and moving to a different project site every week or two. Projects vary but may involve helping to preserve wildlife (including surveys, population monitoring and habitat restoration), planting trees, restoring native landscapes, preserving riverbeds and maintaining walking trails. The activities in which you participate will depend on local conservation priorities when you arrive. You'll need to be flexible, hard-working and happy to go to a variety of locations around your main area depending on where you're needed.

Wallaby rehabilitation in Queensland, Australia

The Bridled Nailtail Wallaby is one of the most endangered creatures in the world today. With only a handful left, volunteers with an interest in animal conservation are required to help towards the future survival of about 130 wallabies at a care facility in central Queensland which aims for wallaby rehabilitation. Daily activities may include preparing food for the animals, cleaning enclosures, checking out suitable release sights and conducting health checks. This project is a perfect addition to a gap year or sabbatical, it requires a genuine love of animals and the outdoors and good team skills. As wallabies are nocturnal, there could be a few late nights and early mornings too!
